Railyard proudly celebrates our 20th release with a massive collaborative project. Label CEO Sean Palm and Stockholm's Joel Mull cultivate their vision into the taste of Spice Market.

Joel Mull needs no introduction. Considered the soul of Swedish techno/house, his recent releases have appeared on such labels as Cocoon, Drumcode, DK7 and Liebe Detail. Having worked alongside some of the world's best, his first full-length Harthouse album "The Observer" garnered international praise with both press & Dj's alike.

Railyard founder Sean Palm continues his momentum after first appearing on Loco Dice's Timewarp compilation and Steve Lawlers Viva London on Renaissance. With 2 remixes in the pipeline and his full-length album "Days On End" due out Spring 2009, Sean Palm continues releasing quality deep flavored techno.

Leading off Railyard #20 is the The Coconut Sticky Rice Mix; a solid deep dub house production perfect for lush opening sets or late night hypnosis. Fans of Lawrence's Dial Records will appreciate the cast of delicate sounds that massage the senses with smooth spatial effects and thick house influenced drum work.

Main floor fanatics will jump for the upbeat sinister flavor of the Black Pepper Shrimp Mix. Bpm's turn up as this massive techno production chugs along with fat rising sounds throwing dance floors into total frenzy.
